SYMPOSIA — Interactive, hands-on, indepth

You asked for a more hands-on and intimate learning experience and that's what you'll find at AAID's 59th Annual Meeting. New this year will be two concurrent tracks of symposia that allow you to interact with key clinicians and a world renowned faculty to gain in-depth knowledge of topics that will make a difference to your practice. You will have a broad number to choose from and watch the AAID web site and future mailings to reserve your spot. These are sure to sell out early. Those who register by March 31, 2010 will have first chance to register for these roundtables and hands-on workshops.

Roundtables – 90 minute sessions limited to 20 participants for an intimate learning experience

Hands-on Workshops – Half-day workshops designed to familiarize you with specific techniques or materials. Limited number of participants.

Just a sample of the offerings include:

- Reconstruction of the Severely Atrophic Maxilla and Complications Associated with Reconstruction of the Severely Atrophic Maxilla
- Extraction Ridge Preservation versus Extraction and Immediate Placement: A Treatment Plan and Procedural Blueprint
- What is the Standard of Care in Implant Dentistry
